ENGLISH

Brunel University London's on-campus pathway provider provides a pre-master's in Arts for students who may not qualify for direct entry to a degree programme and seek a supportive learning environment.

Study English at Brunel

The English department at Brunel is one of the best in the UK, and right from the start of your studies you'll be introduced to critical perspectives, approaches and contexts which will give you the tools to interrogate your reading. Ours is a 21st Century teaching philosophy, both in terms of innovative use of technology to enhance learning and analysing the impact technology is having on knowledge culture and literature.

Our academics have earned Brunel an established reputation for teaching and research in contemporary literature, creative writing, renaissance studies, nineteenth century literature, and postcolonial studies and beyond. Our goal is to ensure our English students find their studies as inspiring as we do.

Choose English at Brunel and you'll be joining one of the best English departments in the UK, with the opportunity to gain a thorough grounding in all the key areas of literary studies from canonical authors such as Shakespeare and Austen, through to 21st Century novels, neo-Victorian fiction, digital writing and global literature.

Careers and your future

An English master's will equip you with a set of enviable skills which are vital for careers in publishing, print and electronic media, the culture industries and education.

Your skills will also be attractive to employers within sectors where accuracy in the written descriptive word is a central feature, including law, the civil service, advertising, marketing, financial services and business.

Above all, the English Literature MA will benefit your own writing, critique and self-expression.

If, at the end of the course, you decide to continue your studies to doctoral level, you will have the essential skills to join a flourishing research culture at Brunel University London.
